Sources

Roche uses different methods and channel to collect personal data from you and about you including:

1. Directly from you;
2. Direct interactions with you, including information obtained from you through physical or virtual meetings, collaborations, services, feedback, requests, inquiries, surveys, etc.;
3. Automated information collected through our websites and online sources;
4. Third parties or publicly available sources, including websites, social media networks, journals, and third party platforms.

Cookies and Other Web Trackers

Our websites and online resources also collect other basic information about you which may not directly identify you, but which may correspond with you or a particular device. We use some of this information to allow our websites to run, as well as to learn more about how our websites and online resources are used and to otherwise improve and administer the site. We also use this information to enable us to deliver information tailored to your interests and preferences, based on your use of the site. For example, we may collect the IP Address assigned to your computer by your internet service provider. This address may change each time you connect to the internet (a “dynamic” IP address), or it may remain the same (a “static” IP address). In most cases, we ask for your consent before collecting this information, in which case you will be presented with a choice as to whether you wish to allow the collection and use of this type of information. Please see Roche’s Cookie Notice published on Roche’s website.

Use of Data for Marketing

We do not sell or transfer the Personal Data to any non-affiliated entity for their own direct marketing use unless we provide clear notice to you and obtain your explicit consent. We use third party advertising companies to place ads on other websites. These companies may use data about your visits to this and other websites in order to measure advertising effectiveness and to provide advertisements about our goods and services that may be of interest to you. If you would like more information about this practice and your choices to opt out of having this information used by these companies, see our Roche’s Cookie Policy.

Information Sharing / Recipients of Personal Data

Recipients of your Personal Data

Roche may share the Personal Data with Roche’s subsidiaries around the world. Our Roche subsidiaries will use the Personal Data for the same purposes as the data Controller does, for example to contact you for a potential collaboration or event. A list of Roche’s subsidiaries is available in the current “Roche finance report in the list of subsidiaries and associates section”, which can be found in the Investors section of www.roche.com.

Furthermore, we may also share the Personal Data with third parties, for the following purposes:

- To F. Hoffmann-La Roche Ltd and other Roche’s subsidiaries for support and maintenance of our platforms and processing activities;
- To IQVIA Ltd, 210 Pentonville Road, London N1 9JY, England, UK for IT support, maintenance and business continuity purposes.
- To business partners: service providers, including market research agencies, events organizers, or other third parties who provide certain services to Roche;
- To cloud providers or services provider for storing purposes and to conduct technical maintenance of our platform and other web platforms;
- To communication providers, including marketing platforms, electronic communication providers, social media platforms in order to send you relevant information and communicate with you
- To facilitate a merger, consolidation, transfer of control or other corporate reorganization in which Roche participates, or pursuant to a financial arrangement undertaken by Roche;
- To respond to appropriate requests of legitimate government authorities, or where required by applicable laws, court orders, or government regulations; and
- Where needed for corporate audits or to investigate or respond to a complaint or security threat.

International Transfers of the Personal Data

Roche may transfer the Personal Data in a geographic region that imposes different privacy obligations than your country of origin (e.g. United States and India). This means that your Personal Data may be sent to a country with less restrictive data protection laws than your own. Any such transfer will be conducted in compliance with applicable laws.

If your Personal Data is covered by the GDPR/UK GDPR/Swiss FADP: For transfers of personal data within the Roche Group and Roche’s processors or business partners, contracts containing the EU Standard Contractual Clauses according to the EU Commission decision of 04 June 2021 (C(2021) 3972), constitutes appropriate and suitable safeguards to ensure compliance with GDPR/UK GDPR/Swiss FADP, including supplementary measures where required.

Retention / Storage Period of Your Personal Data

The length of time in which we will store your Personal Data will differ depending on the purpose for which we have collected and are processing your data. In most cases, we will keep the data for three (3) years following our last interaction with you. We may, however, maintain your data for a longer period of time if we are required by law to maintain your data, e.g. due to tax law or accounting requirements.

Information About Your Rights Regarding Your Personal Data

You may have certain rights regarding our use and processing of your Personal Data.

If data processing is based on consent, note that you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time unless applicable laws or regulations or judicial requirements require otherwise. The withdrawal of your consent does not affect the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal. In order to withdraw your consent you can either use the mechanism as individually explained when we asked for your consent or in any case send an email to the data controller as indicated above.

Your rights in accordance with applicable laws

Your Rights if your Data is covered by the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act ("PIPEDA") and/or substantially similar provincial laws. In certain circumstances, you may have the following rights:

The right to access your Personal Information and request a correction to it if you believe it is inaccurate. Whenever made possible, you can access, update or request deletion of your Personal Information directly within your account settings section.

The right of rectification. You have the right to have your information rectified if that information is inaccurate or incomplete.

The right to withdraw consent. You have the right to withdraw your consent to the collection, use, transfer and disclosure of your Personal Information at any time, subject to any legal/contractual requirements. If you choose to withdraw consent, we may no longer be able to provide certain services and/or products.

Commercial Electronic Messages. You may withdraw your consent to processing your personal information in order to receive promotional and other materials that may be of interest to you. If you no longer wish to receive marketing emails from us, you may choose to unsubscribe at any time by clicking on the "unsubscribe" link in our emails or contacting us directly.

You have the right to lodge a complaint with the Office of the Privacy Commissioner of Canada or applicable provincial Information and Privacy Commissioner who can then pursue the complaint with Roche.

To exercise any of these rights you can contact the Roche Canada Privacy Officer at: mississauga.privacy@roche.com

Updates to This Privacy Notice

From time to time, we may revise this Privacy Notice. Any such changes to this Privacy Notice will be reflected on this page. Roche recommends that you review this Privacy Notice regularly for any changes. The date on which this notice was last revised is located at the top of this notice.
